

RISK DISCLOSURE – DREXEL TRADING

This Risk Disclosure informs Clients about the risks involved in trading financial derivatives.

The financial instruments offered, including CFDs and Digital/Binary Options, are complex and high-risk products.

Trading may result in the total loss of invested capital and is not suitable for all investors.

Leverage amplifies both profits and losses.

Past performance does not guarantee future results.

Market volatility, liquidity risk, technical failures and third-party risks may affect execution and results.

Cryptocurrency trading involves additional technological and market risks.

Drexel Trading does not provide investment advice and Clients act at their own discretion.

There are no guarantees of profit or protection from losses.

Clients must ensure that trading is legal in their jurisdiction.

Force majeure events may impact trading conditions.